PREFACE

The Montana Legislative Services Division provides information resources for legislators and other interested persons both during and after a legislative session. These resources are designed to help people locate legislation, committee testimony, and codified statutes and include the telephone directory, bill status reports from drafting to final vote, a subject index of proposed legislation, lists of code sections affected by passage of legislation, etc.

This brochure provides a brief introduction to the various sources of information published by the Montana Legislative Services Division.

During the legislative session, the Legislative Information Office is open in the Capitol to help people with questions. Legislative information is also available by phone at 1-406-444-4800. Several computer terminals in the Capitol provide access to the latest information on introduced bills, and information is available through the State Bulletin Board System (BBS) and the Internet. The State BBS may be accessed by local Helena callers at 444-5648, by other callers in Montana toll-free at 1-800-962-1729, and by out-of-state callers at 1-406-444-5648.

For more information on any part of this brochure, contact the Montana Legislative Services Division, Room 138, State Capitol, Helena, Montana 59620-1706, phone 1-406-444-3064.

RULES OF THE MONTANA LEGISLATURE

The Joint Rules, Senate Rules, House Rules, and an index to those rules are printed, along with the Montana Constitution and its index, in the Rules of the Montana Legislature. The U.S. Constitution is included. This booklet also gives a brief listing, with the corresponding rule number, of deadlines and time limitations for the session.

The booklet is published each legislative session and is available early in January for a nominal charge from the Distribution Center.

10-10. Time of meeting. Each house may order its time of meeting.

10-20. Legislative day — duration. (1) If either house is in session on a given day, that day constitutes a legislative day.

(2) A legislative day for a house ends either 24 hours after that house convenes for the day or at the time the house convenes for the following legislative day, whichever is earlier.

10-30. Schedules. The presiding officer of each house shall coordinate its schedule to accommodate the workload of the other house.

10-40. Adjournment — recess — meeting place. A house may not, without the consent of the other, adjourn or recess for more than 3 days or to any place other than that in which the two houses are sitting (Montana Constitution, Art. V, Sec. 10(5)).

10-50. Access of press. Subject to the presiding officer's discretion on issues of decorum and order, an accredited press representative may not be prohibited from photographing, televising, or recording a legislative meeting or hearing.

A LEGISLATOR'S HANDBOOK

The publication A Legislator's Handbook provides an overview of the operations of the Legislature, legislative service agencies, and state government. Included are chapters on centralized services, legislative interns and aids, and lobbying and lobbyists. Procedures of standing committees, how a bill becomes law, the 12 orders of business, and fiscal note requirements are also reviewed.

Copies of this free publication are available from Legislative Services while supplies last.

CHAPTER V

INTERIM ACTIVITY

The regular biennial legislative session occupies only about one-sixth of the lifespan of a Legislature. The members do not escape from legislative responsibilities, however, during the 20 months until the convening of a new Legislature. In addition to special sessions that called the entire Legislature to Helena several times in recent years, numerous statutory committees, interim study committees, and national legislative research organizations have kept many members' attention and energy focused on between-sessions work. This chapter provides an overview of those interim activities.

STUDY COMMITTEES

The formation and function of an interim committee were explained a number of years ago by Robert Person, then director of the Legislative Council's Research and Reference Services Division, in the Interim Directory of Legislative Committees. These details are excerpted from that explanation and are still apropos:

Inception of an Interim Study Subcommittee

A study is first requested in a Joint Resolution adopted by the Legislature. Section 5-5-217, MCA, requires the Legislative Council to prepare a list of study resolutions adopted and distribute it to all the legislators for their votes on priority of study immediately after the session. Following the requirements of the same section of law, after prioritization, the Legislative Council designates the subcommittees to which studies are to be assigned, and the Speaker and the Committee on Committees then appoint members. Section 5-5-211, MCA, provides that four members of each house be appointed. No more than two members from a house may be from one political party.

The Bill Drafting Manual sets forth uniform standards and instructions on bill drafting. It includes information on the mechanics, style, and technique of drafting bills, resolutions, amendments, and referendums. Sample bills and resolutions, plus a bill drafter checklist, are included.

This publication is free and is available from Legislative Services.

Chapter 2

Style and Language

2-1. Introduction.

Bills should be written in a simple, clear, and direct style, phrased for the common reader as well as for the political or legal expert.

A poorly drafted, ambiguous bill will waste the time of citizens affected, confuse those charged with its administration, lead to litigation, and likely fail to accomplish the purpose of the requestor. Good drafting requires concise wording that is understandable by a person who has no special knowledge of the subject.

If wording in a bill has to be paraphrased to make it intelligible to a nonexpert, it needs revising. In Montana, the common-law tradition has manifested itself in the timeworn, nonessential phrases and rhetorical flourishes found in our older legislative enactments. The suggestions contained in this chapter are designed to help the drafter avoid the most common faults in style and language evident in some of our present law.

As authority for basic rules of writing, the Legislative Services Division uses the latest edition of the United States Government Printing Office Style Manual and the Gregg Reference Manual, Seventh Edition, by William A. Sabin. Compounding of words is done according to the Style Manual and according to agency guidelines.

Generally, the ordinary rules of grammar apply to legislative writing; however, in a few instances a departure from common usage is followed.

BILL DRAFTING REQUEST REPORT

Bill drafting request forms are filed in the Legislative Services legal office. The requests are assigned a bill draft (LC) number, which becomes the identifying number throughout the drafting and input stages. Information from the bill draft request form is used to produce the Bill Drafting Request Report.

The report is printed in four parts: the Subject Report, the Requestor Report, the By Request of a Committee or Agency Report, and the Drafter Report. Entries in each of the four reports include the LC number, bill number, short title, requestor, sponsor, subject code, and drafter.

Copies of the Bill Drafting Request Report are available for use in the Legislative Services offices, the Legislative Library, and at the Distribution Center as well as on the State BBS. The report may be purchased from the Distribution Center, with the price set according to the number of pages.

CODE SECTIONS AFFECTED

MCA Code Sections Affected by Bills & LCs

During the session, a report is generated (on approximately a weekly basis) that lists all code sections that may be repealed or amended. Bill drafters use this list to avoid conflicts, correct redundancies, and solve problems. The printout is available for use in the Legislative Services main office or the Legislative Library and may be purchased from the Distribution Center.

HOUSE AND SENATE AGENDAS

The Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives prepare the daily agendas of bills to be debated in their respective Committee of the Whole. The agendas list the bill number, sponsor, short title, and which report is to be considered (second reading, third reading, conference committee amendments, Governor's amendments, etc.).

In addition, second and third reading information can be found online through the Bill Status Inquiry System. Checking the status of a specific bill will reveal whether or not that bill is scheduled for second or third reading.

The agendas are available at no cost from the Legislative Information Office, the Secretary of the Senate, or the Chief Clerk of the House. Bill status terminals are located in several areas of the Capitol for easy access.

As bills are introduced, a Subject Index is compiled and printed. This index, which is updated daily, lists all introduced bills under standard subject headings. Using this tool, a bill number can be easily located when only the subject of the bill is known.

The Subject Index is available for use in all Legislative Services offices. It can also be purchased at the Distribution Center. The price is set according to the number of pages. It is also available on the computerized Bill Status Inquiry System and the State BBS.

ELECTRONICALLY AVAILABLE INFORMATION

Much of the information regarding session activities is also available electronically. The Bill Status Inquiry System and Internal Reference List are described in the following pages. Bill text and session information is available electronically on the State BBS. FTP access to bills over the Internet is planned for the 1997 session. After session, the Montana Code Annotated is published on a compact disk as well as in soft-bound books, on the State BBS, and on the Legislative website (<http://www.mt.gov/leg/branch>).

The Legislative Services Division produces a document called "Legislative Information Available to the Public", which details electronic sources of legislative information and how to access them. The 1997 session edition will be available in November 1996 and will be posted on the State BBS and the Legislative website.

Bill Status Inquiry System

During the regular legislative session, the status of legislation is available through the computerized Bill Status Inquiry System. Information on the system includes bill status data, standing committee hearing schedules (for either a specific committee or for a specific date), primary sponsor bill lists, and a subject list of bill draft requests and introduced bills. This information is also posted to the State BBS at the end of each legislative day. Plans are underway to also post this information to the Legislative website.

HOUSE AND SENATE JOURNALS

The House and Senate Journals provide a record of all actions taken on introduced bills and resolutions. The journals are printed daily during the session, and they set forth the text of communications between houses, committee reports, transmittal correspondence to and from the executive, and votes on motions, amendments, and bills. The journals are not verbatim and do not contain a transcript of debate in the Committees of the Whole. Daily journals can be purchased from the Distribution Center.

After session, the daily journals are published electronically on CD-ROM by Legislative Services. The electronic version contains search software that allows the user to search the journals in a wide variety of ways. The journals are also available through the State BBS and the Legislative website.

The daily journals are furnished free of charge to each County Clerk and Recorder, the State Library, and the State Law Library. Subscriptions to the journals are available through the Distribution Center.

LEGISLATIVE REVIEW

The first report published following the completion of a regular session is the Legislative Review. This publication provides a summary of all bills that will become law. The summary of provisions is organized by chapter number, with bill number, chief sponsor, and the title of the bill included.

Appropriation bills and resolutions are listed separately.

The index is divided into a subject index, a code sections affected list, a table of session laws affected, a table of session law to code, a chapter number to bill number and bill number to chapter number list, plus the effective date table, for easy reference. This index is used as a temporary index until the revised MCA index is available.

The Legislative Review is free to all subscribers to the Montana Code Annotated. Nonsubscribers are charged a nominal fee. Contact Legislative Services for further information.

MONTANA CODE ANNOTATED

The Montana Code Annotated is the systematic arrangement of all permanent state statutes (laws) currently in effect in Montana. The MCA is published in two parts: the code itself and the annotations to the code. A new edition of the code is printed every odd-numbered year, with new laws added, repealed laws deleted, and amended statutes updated. The Legislative Services legal staff is responsible for the codification process.

An entry in the MCA includes the statute, its legislative history, and any compiler's comments and cross-references to related code sections.

The second part of the MCA, the annotations, incorporates background materials relating to the statutes, including pertinent official comments, amendment summaries, case notes, references to administrative rules, digests of Attorney General's opinions, and citations to law review articles, bar publications, and legal encyclopedias. An explanation of each of these items is found in the preface to Volume I of the annotations.

The code and the annotations can be purchased from Legislative Services. The MCA and annotations are available in hard copy, on compact disk, on the State BBS, and on the Internet. Certain MCA titles are printed separately and can be purchased in pamphlet format. Annotation titles can be purchased individually in pamphlet format or as a complete set.

SOVEREIGNTY AND JURISDICTION

2-1-402. Legislative declaration. (1) (a) In enacting this part, the legislature employs its legislative authority to establish that the people of the state of Montana, acting through their elected officials in state government, have the responsibility and authority to establish policy in and for Montana pertaining to federal programs mandated in federal statutes.

(b) The intent of the legislature is to ensure the primacy of the state of Montana's legal and political authority to implement in and for Montana the policy mandated by federal statutes and to vigorously challenge and scrutinize the extent and scope of authority asserted by federal executive branch agencies when federal agency actions and interpretations are inconsistent with Montana policy and exceed the lawful authority of the federal government or are not required by federal law.

(c) In this regard, the Montana legislature finds and declares that:

(i) the power to implement federal policies in and for Montana is central to the ability of the people of Montana to govern themselves under a federal system of government; and

Committee on Public Employee Retirement Systems

Statutory Citation: Title 5, chapter 21, MCA and Chapter 552, Laws of 1995

For the third interim in succession, the Legislature has approved an interim committee to study public employee retirement systems. Other Committee duties included reviewing the fiscal status of the retirement systems and developing sound retirement policies for recommendation to the Legislature. Chapter 450, Laws of 1993, requested that the Committee on Public Employee Retirement Systems study equitable, reasonable, and soundly funded guaranteed annual postretirement benefit adjustments for members of the statewide public employee retirement systems.

For the 1995-97 interim, the Committee on Public Employee Retirement Systems has an appropriation of up to $13,800 from the pension trust funds, and the Legislative Services Division is authorized to accept for Committee use any contributions of up to $10,000.
